BRISTOL BURGESS WILL ABDICATE IN BOYS' WEEK HONOR

Municipal Election to Take Place, With Boys Par- ticipating

TO ACT FOR ONE HOUR

Youth to Have Taste of Public Office During Eventful Days

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson is going to abdicate his throne as the chief executive of the Borough of Bristol. Just a minute, dear reader. It is going to be only for a few hours in honor of Boys' Week.

As an innovation in the Boys' Week plans, this year, it is proposed to hold a municipal election at which time a burgess, members of Borough Council, superintendent of public safety, borough engineer, chief of police, members of the police department and various other borough officials are to be chosen. The election is to be made by ballot which will be printed in the local press.

The balloting will end on Monday, May 27th, and just as soon as the committee having this feature in charge, prepares the necessary ballot form, the publication of it will begin.

The boys will conduct the municipality's business for an hour on May 8th.

Every boy, between the ages of 14 and 16, will be eligible to participate in the election and to be a candidate. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes will be burgess and the one receiving the next largest number will be named to the various positions in the burgess' cabinet.

The burgess and his cabinet will lead the line of parade on Boys' Day, May 9th.

The marble contest will be held on the afternoons of May 4th and 5th.

The ward leaders which have thus far been selected are as follows:

First ward—Nelson Green.
Second ward—Joseph Alin.
Fourth ward—E. Worthington.
Fifth ward—Arthur P. Brady.
Sixth ward—Samuel Shire.
Edgely—Donald Snively.

COUNT IN GIFT CAMPAIGN SHOWS FINE OPPORTUNITY FOR AMBITIOUS WORKERS

Splendid Opportunities Exist for Real Candidates in Courier's Gold Drive; Right Now Is Time to Put Forth Greatest Effort

CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD USE OF YOUR SPARE TIME

Neither the list of candidates nor the recorded vote today is a fair indication of how The Courier's $10,000 free Gold Gift campaign should be. Subscriptions and coupons have been turned in for some who, as yet, have made no apparent effort themselves. To be content with letting your friends vote for you as they renew their subscriptions in the business office and send their coupons in for you each week is not enough. The Gold Prizes are too extraordinary and too valuable and each candidate has too much at stake to lose valuable time or to lag along in the campaign. Work now while subscriptions count most.

New Entries Can Win

Why, today any new candidate can enter this election and with a few new subscriptions could shoot up and gain a good lead in any of the districts. It can be done. Of course any candidate now entered can do the same thing. There is no handicap. All have the same conditions to meet and are on even terms. Work is the governing factor. Salesmanship, too, helps.

BELIEVE WOMAN WAS MURDERED OUTSIDE HOME

Authorities Are of Opinion Body Was Then Carried To Her Bedroom

HUSBAND IS GRILLED

REVERE, Apr. 16.—Authorities are now working upon the theory that Mrs. Minnie Allaire, 60, wife of Sylvester Allaire, 50, of this place, who was found dead in her home Tuesday afternoon, was murdered outside of her home and carried into the bedroom where her lifeless body was found.

The husband of the woman shows decided signs of weariness after 40 hours of questioning regarding the case. Definite developments are expected today by State Police and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, who are working on the case.

Mrs. Allaire, according to her husband, had quarreled with him early on Wednesday. Allaire is 50 years of age. He stated that he and his wife had made certain accusations to each other, regarding their conduct with men and women friends. According to Allaire his wife grabbed a bottle of rubbing alcohol and two bottles of iodine, for possession of which he struggled with her. The man stated he was fearful lest his wife commit suicide.

It is stated by Allaire that he later left the house to look for work. After he returned, he states, he left a second time, and upon returning heard a shot just before entering the home. He told the police that he found his wife on the bedroom floor, and that she did not answer when he called to her. He summoned Dr. Grim, who found the woman to be dead, and located two bullet wounds in her right breast.

Corporal Francis of the State Police barracks, states his belief that the woman was murdered; and the police are working upon the theory that she was probably shot outside the house and then taken into the structure.

Allaire again questioned at great length, denies all knowledge of the shooting.

The couple have been residents of Bucks County for many years.

Herbert Lawrence, of 338 Radcliffe street, was a guest over the week-end of Noble Hall, of New York.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL INSTITUTE OF BUCKS COUNTY W. C. T. U. INCLUDES INTERESTING ADDRESS BY STATE PRESIDENT, MRS. ELLA B. BLACK

Many Women Gather at Morrisville Church to Participate in Program — Memorial Service is Conducted — Work of Young People is Spoken Of MORRISVILLE, Apr. 16.—Sixteenth annual institute of Bucks County W. C. T. U. was held in the Morrisville M. E. Church on Saturday.

The meeting was called to order by the county president, Mrs. Jesse Harper, of Yardley.

In the absence of the evangelistic superintendent, Miss Packard, Miss Judd, of Newtown, read the Scriptures. Her subject was: "God Will Use Us If We Let Him." Miss Sarah Wilson, as usual, was musical director.

Mrs. Levinia Donelson, president of Morrisville Union, graciously welcomed the visiting unions. Mrs. Charles Neild, of Fallsington, aptly responded.

At Mrs. Harper's suggestion a motion was passed to send a letter of congratulation and commendation to Governor Pinchot, also a letter of condolence to Miss Emily I. Packard for the loss of her aunt, Miss Skeer, and regretting loss to the union of a generous and faithful member.

Mrs. Carter, of Langhorne, and her daughter, favored with a solo and a duet. Mrs. Anne Finney, of Richboro, director of scientific temperance instruction, informed that a committee having waited on acting superintendent of schools, James F. Ruhl, of Harrisburg, regarding the teaching in the schools of the harmful effects of alcohol, replied that it was still a part of the school law and the following resolution had been adopted by the Pennsylvania School Directors' Association, at their annual convention and Harrisburg February, 1931.

"Resolved, That we recommend that, as school directors, we see to it that the provisions of the School Code, both in letter and in spirit, relative to teaching the effects of alcohol and narcotics, be strictly carried out."

Mrs. Althouse, of Quakertown, told of Quakertown's essay contest.

Miss Mary Atkinson, of Newtown, conducted the memorial service. Mrs. Harper spoke of the great loss our country had sustained in the death of Honorable Nicholas Longworth.

President Mrs. Harper called the afternoon session promptly at two o'clock. Rev. L. C. V. Mitten conducted the devotional service.

After a vocal solo by Mrs. White, the president suggested the institute send greetings to the Parent-Teacher Association then in session. Miss Gladys Harper and Mrs. Hartman were appointed messengers. Mrs. Alvin Sherburne director of Y. P. B., was introduced and congratulated the union on having a Bucks Countian, Harold F. Craven, as state superintendent of Y. P. B. She said the young people of today may not have as great a reverence for things vital and eternal as union members have, but they should be praised for their wonderful accomplishments.

Mrs. Ella B. Black, who was greeted with the W. C. T. U. salute, gave the

ROADWAY TO BRIDGE TO BE READY IN TIME

Expect to Complete Job Saturday, If Weather Continues Favorable

A SHORTER ROUTE

The concrete approach on the Pennsylvania side of the Burlington-Bristol bridge will be completed Saturday, according to the contractors. The roadway is being pushed to completion and calcium chloride is being used so that the concrete will set quickly. The State requires the concrete to set 14 days, when calcium chloride is used, before the roadway can be opened to traffic.

The road is being built by William Eisenberg & Sons, Camden, N. J., for $58,367.67, which cost will be paid 50 percent by the State, 25 percent by Bucks County and 25 percent by Bristol Township.

The contractor is pushing the work so that the road will be ready for the dedication of the bridge on May 2nd, and unless something unforeseen occurs, the job will be done and ready for traffic.

Since April 10th there has been a total of 600 feet of concrete poured each day.

The first concrete surface to be placed this season in Pennsylvania was that on the approach to the bridge.

Construction started last October when the grading was done. It includes a roadway one mile in length at a new location, where a heavy fill was required to cross a low swamp section leading to the new bridge.

A new cut-off route to New Jersey shore points, by-passing Philadelphia, will be available to motorists with the completion of a concrete approach to the new Burlington-Bristol bridge, and construction of a new stretch of highway between Pipersville and Buckingham, Walter N. White, manager of the travel bureau of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, said yesterday.

"The Pennsylvania Highway Department has advertised for bids on the grading and concreting of the present dirt road between Pipersville and Buckingham through Gardenville, and this work is expected to be completed this summer," Mr. White said. "The distance is eight miles. This new construction will save four miles over the present route through Doylestown, and will obviate the congestion encountered at the intersection of Routes 611 and 122 in the centre of Doylestown. It also will encourage travel from Easton as well as Northern Pennsylvania, Northern New Jersey and New York State to use the Burlington-Bristol bridge to by-pass Philadelphia en route to the shore resorts."

"The second missing link in this new route is in process of completion with the recent starting of concreting of the mile approach of the Burlington-Bristol bridge on the Pennsylvania side. This is the bridge's connection with the Bristol pike, U. S. Route 13. Bridge company officials have announced the dedication of the new Delaware span on Saturday, May 2nd, when it will be thrown open to public use. All New Jersey approaches have been completed.

"Another connecting link to this new route is State Route 313 running from Quakertown to Dublin completed."

PLANE FALLS; BRISTOL MAN JUMPS TO SAFETY

Wings Ripped From Craft Which Paul E. Hovgard Was Testing

SHIP FALLS IN HOUSE

Serious injury and possibly death was narrowly averted by Paul E. Hovgard, test pilot and engineer of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation, yesterday, when a piece of cowl was ripped off the engine, and the wings and tail of the plane he was testing fell from the craft at Anacostia, Virginia.

Hovgard, who left Bristol on Monday, was testing a navy observation biplane when the accident occurred. The ship commenced falling in the course of a power dive, and the local test pilot leaped from the plane, making a safe landing with his parachute. Only slight injuries, mainly bruises, were sustained by Hovgard. He made a landing on the naval air field.

The craft being operated by the Bristol man as at an elevation of 7,000 feet when he was forced to jump to safety.

The plane, a two-passenger craft, crashed into an Anacostia home, plunging through a second-floor bedroom and down to the living-room.

Mr. Hovgard returned to his home here last evening by train.

Announce Date Change For Girls' Week Here

The date for Girls' Week has been changed to May 17th to 24th. It was previously announced that the date would be May 10th to 16th.

It was necessary to change the dates due to the fact that the Bucks County Track and Field Meet is to be held here on the high school campus on Saturday, May 16th, and this would have made it impossible to have had the use of the field.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sprague, of Hartford, Conn., were overnight guests last week of Mrs. C. J. Henningsen, of Maple street.

JAMES VALENTI WEDS MISS JENNIE LEMA

Ceremony Performed in St. Ann's Church by Rev. Father Romagno

BIG RECEPTION IS HELD

Yesterday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, a pretty wedding took place in St. Ann's Church, when Miss Jennie Lema, daughter of Mrs. Catharine Lema, of 412 Logan street, became the bride of James Valenti, of Lafayette street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Marcellino Romagno, rector of the church.

Miss Katharine Ricco was bridesmaid and Joseph Valenti was best man.

The bride was attired in a beautiful white satin gown, fashioned with a close-fitting bodice, round neck line, long sleeves, and a long full skirt. A large satin bow of the material was worn at the waistline in the back. Her slippers were white satin and the bridal veil of tulle, edged with lace, was cap shape trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Riccio looked attractive in a gown of orchid satin, made with a sleeveless, close-fitting bodice, round neck-line and shirring on each side. The skirt was quite long and full, the hemline ending in points. A large satin bow of the material was worn at the waistline in the back. Her slippers and horsehair hat trimmed with satin ribbon matched her gown, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride. During the evening the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, where they will spend several days. Upon their return, they will reside with the bride's mother.

The bride was born in Bristol and attended the public schools. Up to the time of her marriage she was employed at the Warner Steel Company. Mr. Valenti is a native of Italy, but has been a resident of the United States for the past fifteen years. He is employed at Roebbling's, in Florence, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Valenti received many beautiful and useful wedding gifts, among them a beautiful silk bed set, a gift from the employees in the department of Warner Steel Company where Mrs. Valenti has been employed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lehman, of Wilson avenue, had as a Saturday and Sunday guest, Mrs. Lehman's sister, Miss Theresa Reed, of White's Corner, Morrisville.

Thieves Get Away With Silk Stocking Loot

LANGHORNE, April 16.—Thieves made away with more than $2,100 worth of unfinished silk stockings from the Dawn Knitting Mills, at Daviatown, Tuesday night, after they had gained entrance by forcing a rear window. The robbery is the second within as many months, according to Thomas White, assistant superintendent, who reported it to the Morrisville State Police.

The factory, which employs about 100 persons, had been closed since last Thursday, but White refused to disclose whether or not the mills were shut down because of labor trouble. All the stockings taken from the building were undyed.

PLAN TO DISSOLVE ANCIENT FERRY CO.; NO LONGER NEEDED

Burlington-Bristol Steamboat Ferry Co. to Go Out of Existence

STOCKHOLDERS AGREE

Application Filed With New Jersey Courts By Solicitor

The Burlington and Bristol Steamboat Ferry Company is to be dissolved. The dissolution is to be by unanimous consent of the stockholders and an application has been made to Joseph F. S. Fitzpatrick, Secretary of State of New Jersey, for dissolution of the corporation. The secretary filed the certificate of dissolution as required by law.

The simple legal process dissolves the corporation which at one time provided the only means of transportation between Bristol and Burlington.

The ferry company owned the boat the "William E. Doron," which ferried passengers, automobiles and wagons between the two cities. The boat docked at the foot of High street, Burlington, and Market street, Bristol, was certain to maintain a schedule between the two communities.

Approximately a year ago the boat made its last trip across the Delaware River.

Since the ferry discontinued the only direct communication between the two places has been by the small boats, which carry passengers only. Motorists who wanted to reach Bristol or Burlington were forced to go around by Trenton or down the river through Palmyra.

The application for the certificates of dissolution was made to the secretary of state by Ernest Watts, solicitor of the company. Fitzpatrick's approval ends the historic line which was the most durable of the many ferry services given across the river since the first rope scow.

Worker Burned In Gasoline Blaze

Raymond Jones, 27 years old, of 31 Susquehanna avenue, Lansdale, was burned about the legs, arms and face yesterday, when he was showered with blazing gasoline, while at work at the Warner Company sand and gravel pits, below Morrisville.

The accident occurred while Jones was filling a gasoline tank. He is employed by the Frank Weaver Company, engaged in building a steel frame for a special apparatus used in the sand and gravel industry.

While Jones was pouring the fluid into the tank, a blazing rivet or a spark from the metal is believed to have dropped into the tank, causing it to let go. He was removed to the hospital in the automobile of James Gallese, of Morrisville.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 16—(INS)—Gar Wood hurdled his "Miss America, 9th" over the waters of Indian Creek here today at a speed of 102.44 miles an hour, a mile an hour short of the world's speed boat record held by Kay Don, British racer. Gar Wood announced he would try again to break the record of 103.44 miles an hour after making minor adjustments to the "Miss America, 9th."

MARSAILLES, France, April 16—(INS)—Don Alfonso de Bourbon, exiled king of Spain, was refused a room at a hotel early today soon after his arrival from Spain. The concierge of the establishment told International New Service he failed to recognize the monarch when he applied for a room. "It was about 7 o'clock when a tall dark gentleman came to the hotel and demanded a room. I said, 'There is nothing left, sir.' The gentleman was astonished and started to explain to me who he was when Duke Muronda arrived and announced the applicant was His Majesty the King." "Then," said the concierge, "it was my turn to be astonished."

SILVER AGAIN AN ISSUE

Is bimetalism to return as a factor in American politics? The old "free-silver" fallacy went to the political graveyard with Bryanism, but there are unmistakable signs that silver is trying to force its way into the political arena again.

The proposals for the support of silver prices and a wider use of silver for monetary purposes have not sprung up spontaneously and simultaneously throughout the whole world, nor throughout the entire United States. The agitation in this country is heard only in the silver-producing states of the West.

Behind the silver movement are business depression in the silver states and countries, silver deflation in China and India, and the new policy of Great Britain which contemplates putting her Eastern dependencies upon a gold basis.

Silver prices are low now because the demand has fallen off. If the vast regions of the Orient desert the silver standard, the demand for the metal will decline still more with a consequent drop in price. That would mean the closing of more mines and smelters.

If the United States Government takes any steps to alleviate the situation, it will be for the purpose of relieving the silver-producing states. It has been a long time since any considerable number of persons looked upon the currency question as a political rather than an economic one and believed they were being crucified upon a "cross of gold."

URBAN HEALTH

Twenty states reduced their death rates from tuberculosis by from 32 to 62 per cent in the last 19 years, demonstrating beyond question the efficacy of the nationwide and unrelenting warfare against this dread white man's disease.

New Hampshire and Rhode Island showed the greatest improvement, and Michigan the least. The industrial state of Pennsylvania, with its predominating urban population, lowered its death rate by a little more than 50 per cent.

The "great white plague" has ceased to be a plague. No longer do the American people live in dread of it, for it has ceased to be a scourge relentlessly taking its toll of human lives. Once powerless against its ravages, man is now master of the situation. One must be almost criminally negligent or ignorant to the extreme to let the "con" get him today.

No one will claim or pretend to believe that city life is healthier than living in the country, but modern sanitation and medical science have demonstrated that the city can be made a safe place for mankind. In Pennsylvania the anti-tuberculosis fight has made six times as much headway in the cities as in the rural sections. Higher standards of sanitary administration, ampler institutions for detection and treatment of the disease, and a broader popular knowledge and more agencies to look after the public health outweigh the pure air of the farm.

Happy thought for the ladies! In places where you cannot smoke, you can keep a bit of eating tobacco parked east of your molars.

BENSALEM TWP. HIGH SCHOOL, Cornwells Heights, Apr. 16.—Last Thursday, Miss Elsie Jennings, girls' physical education teacher, was married to Maxwell E. Carpenter, of Woodbury, N. J. The happy couple met while both were students at Temple University. A courtship followed, culminating in their marriage Thursday. The ceremony took place in the St. James' M. E. Church, Olney.

Miss Jennings presented a very charming appearance in an aquamarine blue gown and hat. She carried a bridal bouquet of yellow roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was attended by her sister, Dorothy, who also made a pretty picture in her pale pink gown and hat. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and lavender sweet peas. The audience consisted of relatives and friends.

After the ceremony, an informal reception was tendered the bride and groom at the bride's own home.

The honeymoon was spent touring the south as far as Virginia.

On Thursday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Bensalem Parent-Teacher Association was held in the school auditorium. After a short business meeting, the entertainment for the evening was provided by the Latin clubs and classes. A Latin play was presented with Miss Alice K. Siddons as coach and advisor. Several musical selections were offered by Miss Betty Underwood and Joseph Faulkner, members of the student body. Rev. Davis was the speaker of the evening.

The Archery Club has started preparations for the spring tournament. Practice takes place every afternoon after school except Tuesdays. Miss Olive Sargeant is archery instructor.

A card party and dance will be given this evening in the high school auditorium by the Parent-Teacher Association. Prizes will be awarded also for non-players.

Students of B. T. H. S. were given a very pleasant surprise in the form of a visit by Miss Catherine E. Helfrick, who was formerly a member of the faculty.

CHAPTER I.

THE steady, rhythmic purr of the airplane engine was suddenly interrupted by a metallic clang. Hot oil gushed from a great hole in the crankcase and, blown straight back in the wind blast from the propeller, smeared Dave Ordway's face and goggles with its viscous slick. Instantly the splendid 220-horsepower motor was a mass of junk, clattering to a stop.

With a sharp pang of dismay the pilot swept off his oil-smeared goggles. He pushed the control stick forward and, as the silent, crippled plane slid downward in a gentle glide, looked overside for an emergency landing place. His mouth became set in a grim, tight-lipped line as he surveyed the inhospitable Florida landscape below. To his left there was a level field, plenty large for a landing, but so far as his present need was concerned, it might as well have been upon another continent. It was obviously beyond gliding radius. But the forces of gravity are inexorable. Land he must, and immediately.

He stretched out his glide until the wind scarcely whispered through wires and struts, hoping to find one spot where he might have a chance in a thousand of making a landing without a complete crash.

Dangerous Outlook

But with the exception of that one level field, there was nothing below but miles upon miles of mangy-looking turpentine pines, stump-littered waste land, stretches of semi-tropic jungle and, here and there, neat squares and parallelograms of citrus groves. Far to the west, a state highway stretched from horizon to horizon, straight as a ruled line. Four or five houses within his range of vision gave the harassed pilot cheer. If he cracked up, someone might come to dig him out of the wreckage. The orange groves looked softer than the scrawny turpentine pines so, as a last resort, he turned the bow of his crippled little ship toward them.

As the little sport plane drifted down toward the straight, precise rows, Ordway was relieved to see that the young trees stood scarcely higher than a man's head. He waited, every nerve and muscle taut, until the wheels flicked the tender green tips of the trees, holding the plane in the air as long as he could in an effort to kill her forward speed.

Swish! The leading edge of the wing plowed through the topmost branches. Ordway covered his face with the crook of his left arm, pulled the joy stick back and held his breath. There was a rapid-fire series of tearing crashes. The monoplane careened this way and that. Then, with a spine-jarring jolt, her propeller splintered against the trunk of a tree, and the engine, plummoting forward, plowed into the soft, sandy soil. Her tail whipped up and, for a few long instants, Ordway feared that she would turn turtle and bury him beneath fuselage and gas tank. The fuselage sagged back to a less precarious angle and the pilot made haste to clamber out of his tilting cockpit.

Walking slowly around the ship, he attempted to estimate the damage. The engine was a total wreck.

"We've had almost everything happen to our grove," said Joan.

So was the propeller. But the wing and landing gear could be mended. Then he surveyed the wide swath of orange and grapefruit trees through which he had swept in his descent. At least 50 of them had been damaged, some slightly, many hopelessly.

There had been a house, he remembered, beside a winding, rutted road a quarter of a mile to the south, so he began to walk along the neat little paths between the citrus trees, keeping a wary eye open for snakes. He had covered perhaps half the distance to the clearing when he heard the sound of voices. He cut a zigzag course through the grove in the direction whence it had come. Rounding the lower branches of a handsome, full-bearing tree, he stopped short, amazed at the pair who were walking toward him.

Dressed in blue denim overalls which terminated in knee-length snake boots were two girls, each of whom, beneath the wide-brimmed hats of coarse straw, was possessed of a beauty so unusual that the flier stared at them with outright astonishment. She who led the way eyed Dave with patent disfavor.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I'm afraid I've ruined a lot of your trees. My engine went bad and I had to land where I could."

"Let's look at the damage," she said coldly.

A Cool Reception

Without more ado she walked on, followed by her companion and by the wondering flier, who had scarcely expected so frigid a welcome.

"I expect to pay for the damage, of course," he explained, when they had reached the lane of splintered trees. "Just tell me what they're worth and I'll write you a check."

She glanced from the mangled fruit trees to the pilot's lean, sun-bronzed face, then to the wrecked plane. She swept off her wide hat, revealing a close cropped mass of tawny hair, which clung to her shapely head in close, natural waves. Her deep blue eyes, now cool and impersonal, were candid and straightforward, without a trace of coyness in them. Her mouth, firm yet sensitive, was set in a clear-cut, determined line, its strength accentuated by the resolute little chin beneath.

"We've had almost everything happen to our grove," she observed at last, "but we never expected to be visited by a plague of pilots. Why didn't you come down in the landing field over there?"

No Choice

"I didn't know it was a landing field," he retorted, rattled by her brusqueness. "And even if I had known it, I couldn't have stretched my glide that far. I just had to pick the softest spot in sight and that happened to be your grove. If you'll tell me what I owe you I'll settle right now. Then, if you'll let me use your phone, I'll have someone come to dismantle my ship and take it away in a truck."

"Why don't you just walk over to Mueller's?" asked the other girl.

"Good idea, if he has the nearest phone," he agreed, regarding her for the first time.

As he looked at her he became aware that she even surpassed her blue-eyed companion in beauty. Perhaps a year younger than the other, she resembled her in some vague, indefinable way despite the fact that the two contrasted in almost every feature. Tendrils of blue-black hair crept from beneath the straw hat, emphasizing the delicate tan of her flawless complexion. Her eyes, too, were black, framed by lashes of a length and heaviness that Dave had thought could be obtained only by a generous application of mascara. There was just a hint of restlessness in the curving lines of her full red lips that her pert, slightly up-tilted nose did not belie.

He studied the two covertly while they surveyed the wreck. It was obvious they were not "crack ers." Despite the crude, shapeless cut of their overalls, their graceful figures were lithe and slender, not squat and ill-proportioned as were those of the farm girls whose early years had been spent swinging a hoe and bending over garden patches. Nor had their voices carried the soft drawl of the South or the crisp, vibrant, vibrant Northern without a doubt.

pleted last year. From Dublin to Doylestown Route 113 is used, and U. S. Route 122 to Buckingham.

Route 313 makes it possible for motorists in the vicinity of Allentown and Quakertown to by-pass Philadelphia at the same time avoiding the rough, narrow Bethlehem pike between Quakertown and Spring House. There is agitation being stirred up for concreting of the pike between these two points.

"All motorists entering Easton from points west and north will be able to use this by-pass, when completed, by following the Lackawanna trail, U. S. Route 611, through Kintnersville to Pipersville, then the new road, to be known as State Route 611, through Gardenville to Buckingham. Here the route continues on Route 113 which is followed through Pineville, Wrightstown, Newtown, Langhorne to South Langhorne. Route 101 is picked up here and followed to Bristol. A right turn is made onto U. S. Route 13 in Bristol and followed south to the outskirts of Bristol, where the bridge approach road is met.

"East of the Burlington-Bristol bridge New Jersey has provided new roads which spread out fan-like to give the motorist a number of excellent paved approaches to all shore points from Long Branch south to Cape May. Mount Holly is the axis point from which these routes radiate.

Alfred Eastlack Champion Marble Shooter of Bristol

Alfred Eastlack, 14, of 909 Beaver street, is the champion marble shooter of Bristol Borough.

Eastlack won this title yesterday when he defeated Samuel Braggs, 13, of 620 Race street, after a series of elimination contests in which eight Bristol lads participated.

The Bristol "mias" champion is a pupil at the Jefferson avenue public school, while the runner-up attends classes at Bath street school.

In the preliminaries at the Elks' courts yesterday, Braggs defeated Jake Accardi, eight years, of 301 Walnut street, a pupil at Wood street school. James Adams, 11, of 219 Dorance street, and who studies at Washington street school, was winner over Jack Moss, 11, of 806 Jefferson avenue. Moss attends Beaver street school.

Young Eastlack won his first game from George Talbot, 13, 256 Monroe street, a Harriman school pupil. In a contest between Paul Niccol, 13, of 237 Franklin street, a St. Ann's parochial school student, and John Nealis, 14, of 705 Pine street, the former won. Nealis attends St. Mark's parochial school.

Braggs next met Adams and defeated him. After Eastlack won over Niccol, the representative of the Jefferson avenue school proved his prowess by defeating Braggs, and thus is crowned Bristol marble "champ."

On next Wednesday a shoot will be held to determine the champion of District No. 1, this taking place at the Elks' courts, here, at 1:30 p. m. Bensalem Township, Bristol Township, Tullytown, Bristol, and St. Francis Industrial School and St. Thomas Aquinas School will be represented. The winner of these matches will shoot for the Southern Division championship May 2nd at Newtown, with these latter matches in charge of Dr. A. J. Strathie. Charles Hellyer is in charge of district No. 1.

Sixteenth Annual Institute of Bucks W. C. T. U. Has An Interesting Address

Mrs. Black spoke of the "Wets" propaganda that "there is more drinking now than in pre-Prohibition days among the young people." In connection with this she read an article from a newspaper of 1897 which stated that after a football game between Harvard and Yale there were 1,000 students drunk. They mobbed a theatre and the citizens complained. Quiet or order could not be secured for 40 hours.

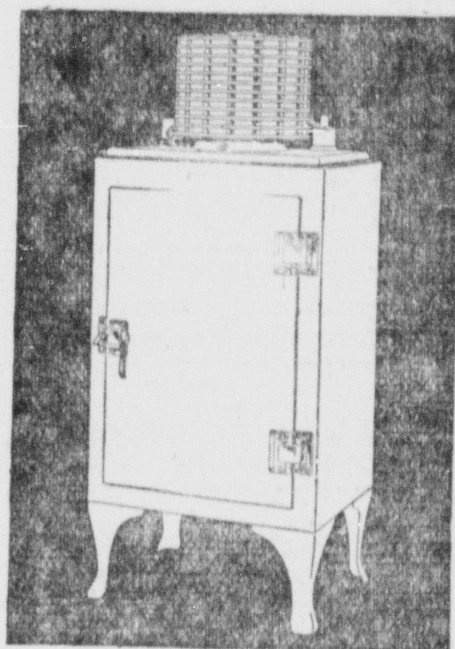

The speaker stated that the slander our young people when we say they are not good, as they were in olden times; that they do things more openly now than they did in by-gone days and said there were petting parties in those days, too.

"We all know the 'wets' use the radio, moving pictures and the press for their wet propaganda, mostly the press. If we have an opportunity we should be ready and willing to broadcast for the 'drys.'"

The state president closed with this statement: "The miners in my section of the state, Cambria County, are having a hard time to provide food and clothing for their families. Don't let them have liquor."

"CURB NERVOUSNESS"
States Great Vienna Nerve Specialist

If you feel depressed, and melancholy, if you suffer frequently from headaches, if nervous indigestion upsets your stomach, if your nerves sometimes become so much "on edge" that you feel all exhausted and think you are becoming a nervous wreck, read what a famous nerve specialist says.

Dr. Albert Nussbaum of Vienna makes this important statement to readers:

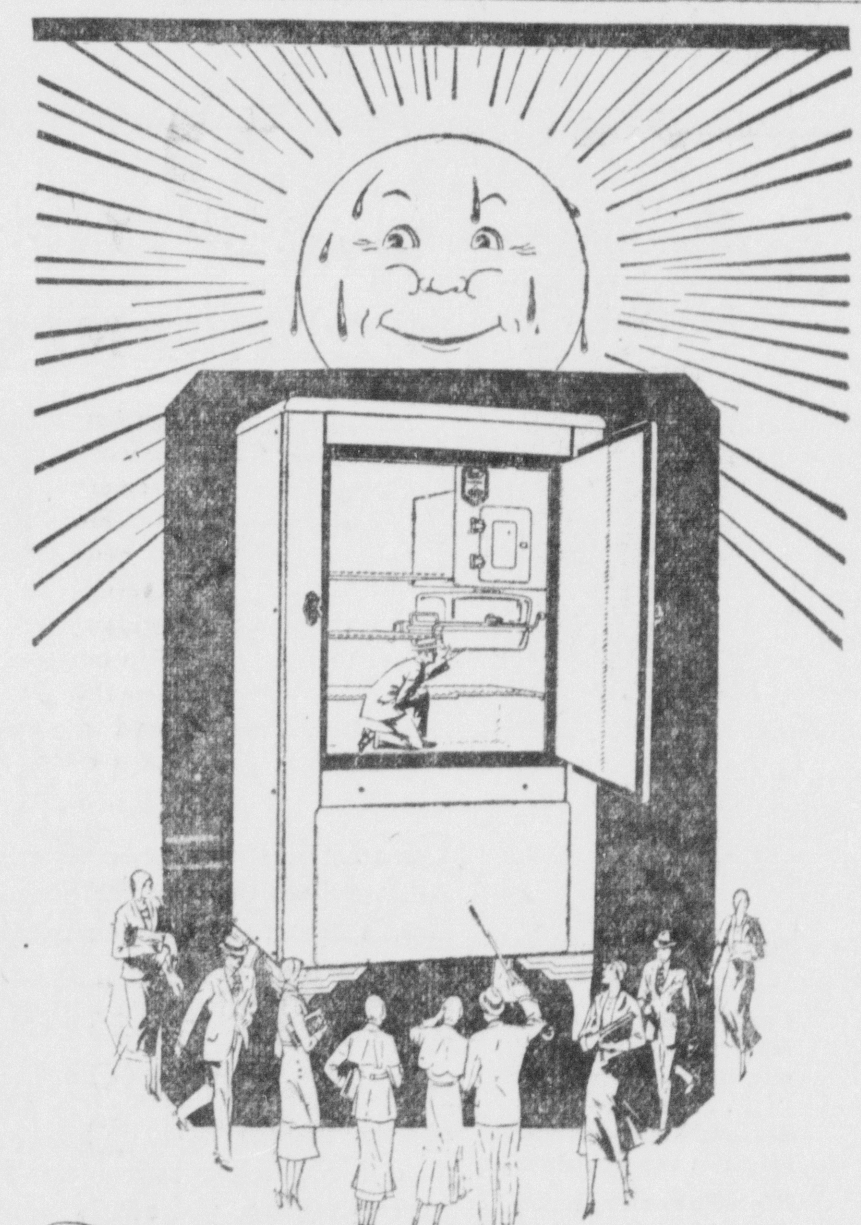

"In all my years of experience treating nervous disorders, I have noticed this most interesting fact—that in many nervous conditions, which range from the well-known but dreaded blues to critical cases of shattered nerves and breakdowns, constipation is generally to be found. I therefore conclude it has some contributing influence.

I have been retained to give my opinion of the FLAXOLYN prescription, and beg to state that it is a splendid—even an outstanding formula—for the constipation which, if neglected, often leads to more serious complications.

We absolutely guarantee in writing that Flaxolyn must improve YOUR condition, by the sixth spoonful, or your money will promptly be refunded. If you want to feel better, look better, eat better and sleep better, start taking Flaxolyn today—and take it steadily!

Markley, Helen Smith and Ruth Wiley. Instrumental music was supplied by Marguerite Bushnell, Joseph Faulkner, Clayton Ashton and Francis Williams.

The Friday assembly program opened with a Bible reading by Miss Snyder of the science department; this was followed by a song by the student body entitled "Oh Worship the King." The junior and senior science clubs then presented a play called "Triumph of a Turnip." The part were taken by Edna Ricker, Alma Ferrier, Betty Lathrop, Robert Kliensorg, Dorothea Wenner, Joseph Copestake, Walter Colville, and George Knoll. The play was very interesting and was enjoyed by all. The program closed with two selections by the students: "Sweet Genevieve" and "Neapolitan Serenade."

On Friday the Bensalem debate team was represented by Axel Kliensorg, captain; Harry H. Seltzer, Alma MacKenzie and William McKenna, alternate. The team was debating for the championship of lower Bucks County. The opponents were the Morrisville debaters and they took the championship with a three to nothing verdict. This was a crushing blow to Bensalem fans, who looked for a victory for the home team.

The senior class has received the itinerary for the coming Washington trip which will start on Wednesday, April 22nd.

The April issue of the Bensalemite will soon be on sale and it will be bigger and better than ever.

Here's How

If you are a new entry, 5,000 votes are issued on each nomination. Then on each yearly renewal subscription turned in, 10,000 votes are issued and a bonus of 60,000 extra are added for a NEW subscription. Then for every club of six yearly subscriptions turned in during your first week of entry 200,000 votes are issued. Now, then, is there an opportunity for new "live wire" candidates? Is there a chance for a real worker? You know there is and the same opportunity exists for any contestant now entered. All are on even terms. It is time now to work, subscriptions count many times more votes now than they will later on in the campaign.
